

› Vancouver Art Gallery Ad Campaign

(Top) Thomas Sidney Cooper, Cattlewater Meadows, 1871, oil on canvas. Collection of the Vancouver Art Gallery. Presented by Public Subscription. Photo: Dennis Smith (Bottom) Brian Jungen, Group of Seven, 2002, plastic chair. Collection of the Vancouver Art Gallery. Purchased with the financial support of the Canada Council for the Arts, Audubon Assistance Program and the Vancouver Art Gallery Acquisition Fund. 2003 Photo: Todd Mills

Pastoral or plastic?

At the Vancouver Art Gallery, we're both curiously classical and decidedly contemporary. From our first acquisition, a 1871 landscape by Thomas Sidney Cooper, to the hyper-modern musings of Brian Jungen, we've been at the heart of Vancouver's art scene — and your community — for 75 years. Take out a membership or take in a visit, there's so much more to discover than just inspired art.

Join us. This is your gallery.

75 Years of Collecting: British Masters, Group of Seven and Pop Icons runs until May 14. Brian Jungen runs until April 30.

75 Vancouver Artgallery

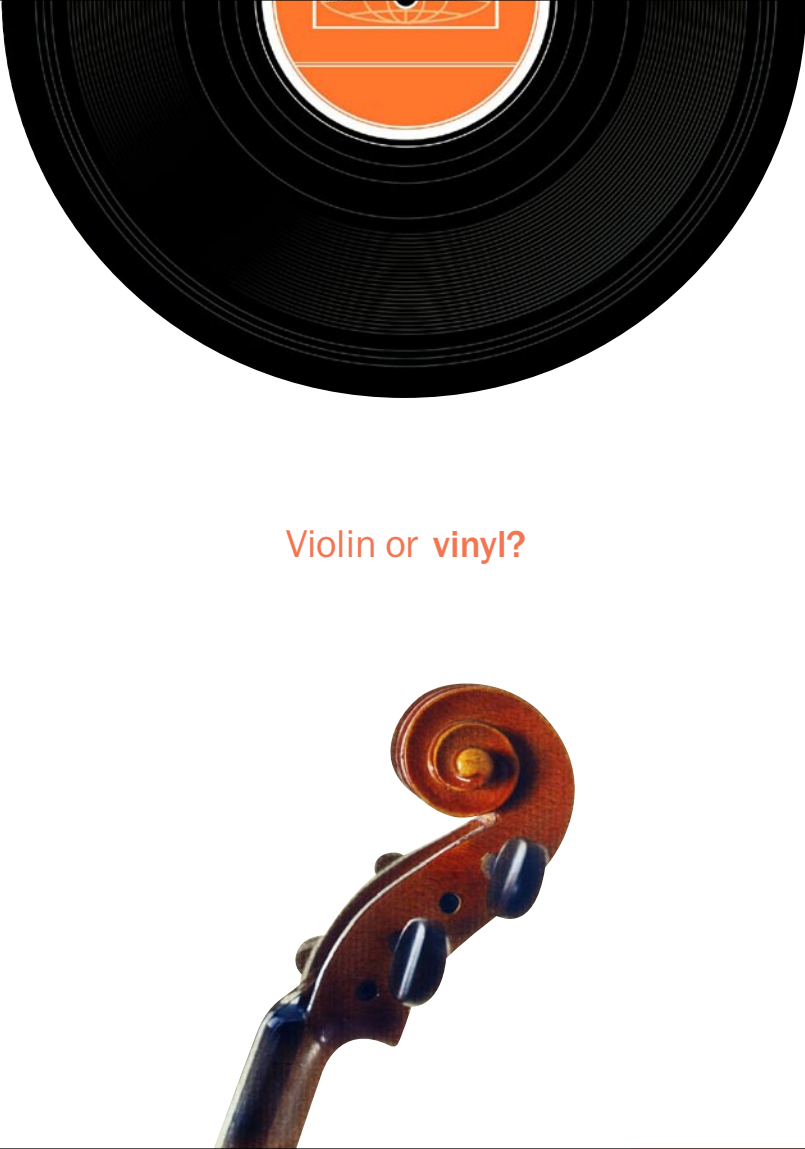

Agency:

Kaldor Brand
Strategy + Design

My Roles:

Strategy
Concept development
Copywriting

› Vancouver Art Gallery Ad Campaign

Violin or vinyl?

Whether you prefer the charm of a concerto or thrill of thumping bass, you can get a regular fix of music and art through our selection of special events. They're just one more reason we've been at the heart of Vancouver's art scene – and your community – for 75 years. Take out a membership or take in some tunes, there's so much more to discover than just inspired art.

Join us. This is your gallery.

75th Anniversary
Celebration Partner:

Fuse – a night of groovy art, beats and performance – happens on the fourth Friday of every month. Out for Lunch Music Series features classical and contemporary performances on select Fridays at 12:10pm

RBC
Financial Group

75 Vancouver Artgallery

Agency:

Kaldor Brand
Strategy + Design

My Roles:

Strategy
Concept development
Copywriting

› Vancouver Art Gallery Ad Campaign

(top) Elizabeth Mditsho, Untitled (Red, Blue and Purple), 2005-2006, oil on canvas, 72" x 90"
Courtesy of the artist and Diaz Contemporary, Toronto, Photo: Trevor Mills, Vancouver Art Gallery
Bottom: Emily Carr, New Perspectives on a Canadian Icon runs from October 7, 2006 to January 7, 2007.
Gift of Peter Brumman, 1990, Photo: © NAC

latest or greatest?

Whether you're inspired by the post-modern reflections of BC's best or charmed by Emily Carr's classics, you'll find something to celebrate this fall at the Vancouver Art Gallery, the heart of BC's art scene – and your community – for 75 years. Take out a membership or take in the galas, the gifts, the great food. There's so much more to discover than just inspired art.

Join us. This is your gallery.

Paint: 7 New Painters + BC Painting Since The 1960s
dazzles from September 30, 2006 to February 27, 2007.
Emily Carr: New Perspectives on a Canadian Icon runs from October 7, 2006 to January 7, 2007.

75th Anniversary Celebration Partner:

75 Vancouver Artgallery

750 Hornby Street 604.662.4719 www.vanartgallery.bc.ca

Agency:

Kaldor Brand
Strategy + Design

My Roles:

Strategy
Concept development
Copywriting